What Is Love?

If you find yourself wondering about the meaning of love in this Valentine's month, just do what the experts did — ask a group of four- to eight-year-olds:

When someone loves you, the way they say your name is different. You just know that your name is safe in their mouth. Billy, age four

Love is what makes you smile when you're tired. Terri, age four

Love is when you kiss all the time. Then when you get tired of kissing, you still want to be together and you talk more. My Mommy and Daddy are like that. They look gross when they kiss. Emily, age eight

When you love somebody, your eyelashes go up and down and little stars come out of you. Karen, age seven

Love is when Mommy gives Daddy the best piece of chicken. Elaine, age five

Love is when you tell a guy you like his shirt, then he wears it every day. Noelle, age five

Love is when Mommy sees Daddy smelly and sweaty and still says he is handsomer than Robert Redford. Chris, age seven

Love is when a girl puts on perfume and a boy puts on shaving cologne and they go out and smell each other. Karl, age five

You really shouldn't say "I love you" unless you mean it. But if you mean it, you should say it a lot. People forget. Jessica, age eight

Love is a child's smile, a mother's hug, a father's pat on the back, a sibling's sharing of candy — you can find love in almost anything!

Be Good To Your Heart

In addition to Valentine's Day, February is also Heart Month. Here are some easy ways to be good to your heart:

Take the stairs instead of an elevator or escalator. Start with just one flight. Or get off the elevator one floor early and walk up the stairs. Soon, you'll be ready for two flights.

Park a few extra blocks away from your destination or at the far end of the parking lot and walk the extra distance. Pick up your walking pace from "stroll" to "brisk".

Walk around the building for a break during the work day or during lunch. Added benefit: it will help you stay awake.

Try thinking of your dog as an exercise machine and take him/her for regular walks. That will be good for both of your hearts!

Sleep well. Research studies have linked sleep deprivation to blood pressure problems, depression and other factors that increase the risk of heart disease.

Laugh — often and honestly. Rent a funny video, tell a silly joke, read a funny story, take yourself less seriously. Stress is your heart's enemy, and laughter is a great stress reliever.

The Cookie Lesson

After a long, exhausting day, a woman was waiting for her flight in the boarding lounge of a busy airport. When an announcement was made that her flight was delayed, she decided to buy something to read. While in the airport shop she also purchased a package of cookies.

The woman returned to the boarding lounge and began reading. Beside the armrest of the chair where the package of cookies lay sat a man reading a magazine. When she took out the first cookie, the man also took one. She stared — he smiled — and both went back to their reading. She was irritated — "What nerve!" she thought — but said nothing. For each cookie she took, the man took one too. Soon she'd gone from irritated to infuriated, but she didn't want to cause a scene.

When only one cookie remained she thought, "What will he do now?" No sooner had she thought that, the man took the last cookie, divided it in half, while smiling, and gave her one half. That was too much! She opened her mouth to reprimand him but was interrupted by her flight being called. In a huff she took her book and her bags and stormed to the boarding gate.

After she sat in her seat on the plane, she opened her purse and to her surprise, there was her package of cookies. Untouched and unopened. She was stunned — and embarrassed. All along, that man had been sharing his cookies with her — and with a smile.Things aren't always what they seem!

Valentine's Day Pet Tips

Valentine's Day can be as much fun for pets as it is for humans if dangerous foods, flora and other items are kept out of paws' reach! Each year, poison control experts see a rise in cases around February 14, many involving chocolate and lilies, a flower that's potentially fatal to cats. So please heed experts' advice — don't leave the goodies lying around on Lover's Day.

Pet-Safe Bouquets

Many pet owners are still unaware that all species of lily are potentially fatal to cats. When sending a floral arrangement, specify that it contain no lilies if the recipient has a cat — and when receiving an arrangement, sift through and remove all dangerous flora. If your pet is suffering from symptoms such as stomach upset, vomiting or diarrhea, he/she may have ingested an offending flower or plant. Go to www.aspc.org/pet-care/poison-control/plants/ to view the ASPCA's toxic and nontoxic plant library as visual guides of what and what not should be in your bouquets.

Forbidden Chocolate

Seasoned pet lovers know the potentially life-threatening dangers of chocolate, including baker's, semi-sweet, milk and dark. Go ahead and indulge, but don't leave chocolate out for chowhounds to find.

Careful with Cocktails

Spilled wine, half a glass of champagne, some leftover liquor are nothing to cry over until a curious pet laps them up. Because animals are smaller than humans, a little bit of alcohol can do a lot of harm, causing vomiting, diarrhea, lack of coordination, central nervous system depression, tremors, difficult breathing, metabolic disturbances and even coma.

Life is Sweet

So don't let pets near treats sweetened with xylitol. If ingested, gum, candy and other treats that include this sweetener can result in a sudden drop in blood sugar known as hypoglycemia.

Every Rose Has its Thorn

Don't let pets near roses or other thorny stemmed flowers. Biting, stepping on or swallowing their sharp, woody spines can cause serious infection if a puncture occurs.

The Furry Gift of Life?

Giving a cuddly puppy or kitten may seem a fitting V-Day gift; however, returning a pet you hadn't planned on is anything but romantic. Companion animals bring with them a lifelong commitment, and choosing a pet for someone else doesn't always turn out right. Great pets — purebreds and designer dogs included — can be found in local shelters and rescue groups, or on petfinder.com. Irresponsible backyard breeders abound, and while you may think you're saving that adorable doggie in the window, buying from most pet stores only helps perpetuate puppy mills. Granted, adopting a pet that suits your lifestyle sometimes requires time and patience, but don't give up. After all, finding true love takes a lot of hard work!

IMPORTANT NOTICE

"The Sister Team" is willing to donate money to help those who would like to adopt a needy (and doomed) pet from any animal shelter!

And remember....spaying and neutering is the most important thing we can do to help cats and dogs!

We are willing and able to confidentially help those who are unable or unwilling to spay or neuter their companion (or stray) animals.

Please contact us and we will donate our time and money to this most-important cause!

Together, forever and always for the animals!

The First Woman to Run for President of the U.S.

Victoria Woodhull was born Victoria California Claflin in Ohio on September 23, 1838. She was later described by Gilded Age newspapers as a leader of the American woman's suffrage movement in the 19th century. She became a colorful and notorious symbol for women's rights, free love, and labor reforms. Her role as a representative of these movements was powerful and controversial; however, she is probably most famous for her declaration to run for the United States Presidency in 1872.

While many historians and authors agree that Woodhull was the first woman to run for President of the United States, some people have questioned the legality of her run, usually citing one of the following reasons:

- ◆ The government declined to print her name on the ballot.
- ◆ She was under the constitutionally mandated age of 35.
- ◆ She did not receive any electoral and/or popular votes.
- ◆ She was a woman.

Woodhull attempted to secure nominations for the presidency again in 1884 and 1892. She had two children, published a magazine called The Humanitarian from 1892 to 1901, and died on June 9, 1927.
